UHPH 2010: Green fields, Brown fields, New fields

7th-10th February 2010

Tenth Australasian Urban History/Planning History Conference
Faculty of Architecture, Building and Planning, University of Melbourne

Conference opening, ACMI Federation Square Sunday 7 February 2010: Australian short films about renewal, destruction and community. Five rarely-seen critiques and/or celebrations of planning, development and the changing urban landscape, followed by panel discussion. Conference attendees will receive a DVD copy of the films.

Keynote speakers:

Gary Presland, author of award-winning The Place for a Village: how nature has shaped the city of Melbourne (2008) and Aboriginal Melbourne (1994, 2001), Fellow of RHSV, Honorary Fellow at the University of Melbourne, Honorary Associate Museum Victoria.

Josephine Johnson in discussion with Carolyn Whitzman. Josephine will talk about her work at the MMBW, and on the plan for Ballarat, in the 1950s; her social profile studies for the Anglican church, conducted in the 1960s; her current interest in gated communities and planning for the active aged; and more.

Sessions and presentations, 8-9 February

Subjects range across issues of heritage, reuse, 'green' suburban development, cultural capital, building form, planning practice, demography, regeneration, gentrification, housing, landscape, playgrounds, iconic plans and planners and more.
