SHAPE

BUILDING MODEL We build on experience. When the University of Melbourne hosted an international design competition in 2009 for its new architecture building, a key aspect of the brief was to keep the process open to students as a learning tool. Of the 133 submissions from 15 countries, the team of John Wardle Architects (Melbourne) and NADAAA (Boston) got the job. A new exhibition reveals the collaborative design processes and research undertaken between the two firms. Wunderlich Gallery, University of Melbourne, February 27 to March 17.

msd.unimelb.edu.au/events/newbuilding/

RAY EDGAR
ray.edgar@bigpond.com